BASEBALL
HERE AGAIN.

Opening Day at the Polo Grounds—Our Giants vs. the Orioles.

OCCASION MARRED BY RAIN.

But Despite the Dampness More Than 10,000 Spectators Came Early.

PRETTY PRELIMINARY MARCH.

Baltimore's Crank Contingent on Hand with Loud Voices and a Good Yell.

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, April 28.—History repeated itself on here today, and as on the occasion of the opening game a year ago a rainfall brought forth a disappointment to thousands of baseball fans. Notwithstanding the fact that it began raining as early as 1 o'clock, the opening of the local baseball season proved such an attraction that by 2 o'clock as many as 3,000 people were in the grounds. The gates were opened at 12:30 o'clock. There was a gathering of people waiting to get in even then. The decorations of the grounds and stand were probably the most elaborate seen at any of the League openings. Both tiers of the grand stand were covered with flags and banners of every size and color, and a long string of flags stretched across the top of the stand. There were flags at intervals of twenty feet clear around the fence, and rows of little flags adorned the fences which shut off the bleachers. The dressing-rooms of both teams were profusely decorated, and the coat of arms of the State of Maryland was erected over the door of the Baltimore house. A mishap occurred about 1 o'clock to the new screen that had been erected on top of the grand stand. A few feet of wind blew it down flat on the roof. A crowd of Baltimore sympathizers, 20 strong, was on hand early and occupied seats with flags and banners. Capt. Ward said the game would be played if there was any chance what-so-ever of a game being played. "We'll play it if we can't do anything else," he said. The rain put Capt. Ward in a quandary as to what pitcher he should use. He had intended to put in German, but he didn't think German was a mud horse. The arrival of several tall-hoed, loaded down with enthusiasm, about 3 o'clock created some diversion for the crowd. The occupants of these vehicles were accompanied by the usual tin horns and strong voices. The grand stand was pretty well packed by this time and people were coming in at a stream. The clouds seemed to be breaking and the band played bravely. The field was in first class condition for a baseball contest, despite the rain. These grounds drain off very readily. The Baltimore delegation made itself prominent while waiting for the teams to come out. They all wore orange and black ribbons and had a yell when they saw the teams. The band remained stationary, playing a lively air, while the clubs in columns of four, marched by in front, saluting each other as they passed. They marched once around the field, and then broke ranks for practice. The movement was very pretty done and drew out great applause. By the time the game began the crowd numbered about 10,000. The rain was falling steadily when the game began. The New Yorks went to the bat first. Murphy was loudly cheered as he stepped to the plate. He went to his base on balls. As John Ward stepped to the plate and immense floral wreath was presented to him. Ward took first on four balls. Van Halbroek got first on a fly ball. Murphy and Dave scored on Terman's hit. Davis forced Terman out at second. Connor's two-bagger brought Davis across the plate. Burke hit safely, and Connor came in. Farrell forced Burke at second. Rust went out at first. Five runs for New York.

The result of the game will be given in the Baseball Edition of "The Evening World."

WANTS HIS DIES RETURNED.

A Released Counterfeiter Astonishes Court Officials.

Got Off on a Technicality and Wants Back His Paraphernalia.

Angelo Delance, an expert bank-note engraver, convicted of counterfeiting bonds of the Argentine Republic, was today discharged from custody by Judge Benedict in the United States Court, Brooklyn, because of a flaw in the indictment. Delance's case was considered one of the most important raids made by Chief Brooks, of the United States Secret Service, in years. The man was making the bonds in a secluded spot on Staten Island, and was arrested on information given by his partner, Reuben Perrin. Delance has a wife and family in this city, and his son is an expert steel engraver. When Delance was arrested, a woman was also taken into custody, who after wards proved to be a sister of one of the best-known grocers in New York. When Delance was discharged today, he immediately filed a claim with Judge Benedict for the return of all the property, counterfeit notes, dies and plates taken by the secret service men at the time of the raid. The United States officials were non-plussed by the audacity of Delance. They say that his action will raise a novel question for the courts to decide. Delance was formerly in the employ of the Argentine Government, as chief engraver, at a salary of $5,000 a year. The indictment stated that he was counterfeiting Argentine Republic bank notes, while those captured in the raid proved to be counterfeit notes of a private institution.

HIS APPLICATION HEARD.

Burnett Will Probably Have to Go to Ohio.

The application of William B. Burnett for a release on a writ of habeas corpus was argued before Judge Lacombe, in the United States Court, this afternoon. Judge Lacombe said: "It is clear that Burnett had in his possession about $200 worth of bonds which he was ordered to return to the United States Court of Cincinnati, or the United States Circuit Court of Ohio. He failed to obey the order, and his extradition is asked on a warrant charging him with contempt." The judge intimated that Burnett would be sent back to Cincinnati, but at the request of counsel, he consented to look at a number of authorities cited, and stated he would render a decision later.

A SUICIDE AT SEA.

Second Cabin Passenger Jumps Overboard from Lucania.

He Was C. M. A. Alrahman, an African Negro.

Child Dies of Diphtheria on the Voyage.

C. M. A. Alrahman, a second cabin passenger on the steamer Lucania, which arrived to-day, jumped overboard shortly before midnight last night and was lost. He is reported to have stated to some of his fellow-passengers that he had been in the service of Henry M. Stanley on one of his trips across darkest Africa. He was a negro, twenty-four years old.

Alrahman is supposed to have been demented, as just previous to committing suicide he gave his watch and chain to one passenger and a sum of money to another, stating that he had no further use for them.

He made two attempts to jump overboard, and the first time was pulled back by one of the passengers. At 11:45 P. M., while unobserved for the moment, he jumped from the after poopdeck on the starboard side.

When the alarm was given the steamer was immediately stopped and a boat lowered, but nothing was seen of him. He was probably carried by the swell on to the propeller and cut to pieces.

Alrahman had been drinking during the passage, and had exhausted his funds, which probably accounted for the act.

A fellow-passenger who had shared the same berth with the unfortunate man told a reporter that Alrahman had spent of having been in the service of Stanley a considerable sum of money, which he had recently lost over the gaming tables of France and Monte Carlo.

It is reported that there is a case of diphtheria on board the Lucania. The child was a child, and that it died after the steamer reached her dock. Surgeon Smith refused to tell its name, but whether it was a cabin or a steerage passenger. The health authorities were notified.

The Lucania experienced an exceptionally rough passage. For three days she has been buffeted by headwinds, and the passengers sustained slight injuries by being thrown against pieces of furniture and stateroom partitions by the action of the ship.

Among the passengers on the Lucania were Dr. Alexander McLane Hamilton, of New York; Miss Alice Wright, Mrs. John Clay, Jr., Miss Alice Walker, Mr. John Wallace F. Foster, Jr., Col. B. J. D. Irwin and Willard Parsons.

SUICIDE WITH LAUDANUM.

Bookkeeper Fife Drank Six Ounces and Died.

The police were notified this morning that Albert Fife, a printer and grocer, who lived at 100 Chambers Street, had died last night in Chambers Street Hospital, from the effects of a dose of laudanum, taken with suicidal intent. His friends called at the hospital this morning and claimed the body.

Shortly before dark yesterday evening, Fife, who had been seen staggering along Greenwich street for some distance, suddenly collapsed and fell to the sidewalk just as he reached the corner of Canal street.

It was apparent to the people who gathered around that the man was not intoxicated, and was suffering from great agony. An ambulance was summoned and he was taken in it to the Chambers Street Hospital.

On the way there he said that he had taken six ounces of laudanum with intent to kill himself. He would not, however, assign any cause for his act, and after telling Ambulance Surgeon Taylor that he was a printer and a bookkeeper, he became unconscious.

At 7:45, shortly after his arrival at the hospital, Fife, without having regained consciousness, died.

There was nothing on his person to show where he had been, and he was bearing this address: "Mrs. Farley, Grove street, city," and a memorandum from a woman, who said she was his wife, and that he was a printer and a bookkeeper. Two of these latter were as nearly as could be made out, "Send for Andy Quirk, Forty-ninth street and Seventh avenue."

This morning two men and a boy called at the hospital and identified the body. One of the men said that Fife had been missing from his home at Owen Farley's house, since last Monday.

"He was the bookkeeper of the Windmill Trust Company," said the man, "I have no idea why he killed himself. The company does not think that his accounts are crooked, and as far as I know, he was not mixed up in any disreputable transaction of any kind. I could hardly have been the result of a love affair, as he was too old for that."

"Fife drank considerable late, continued the man, "and was very melancholy. His wife died in Stamford, Conn., last January, and brooding over this loss may have had something to do with his suicide. He leaves no children. He has two brothers living in New York, one of them, I believe Edward, is at 125 Water street."

Deputy Coroner Schultz viewed the body this morning, and granted a permit for its removal.

HAS HE KILLED HIMSELF?

Actor Lator Disappears from His Sister's Home.

ARROCHER, S. L., April 28.—Mrs. Albert Hecker, widow of the Brooklyn actor, at Stapleton this morning, asked the police to look for her brother, Edward J. Lator, aged thirty years, who left her home yesterday morning and has not been seen since.

Lator had been acting strangely for several days, and it is feared he has been drinking. He was an actor, and until lately resided in Chicago. He is five feet ten inches in height, with smooth-shaven face, brown hair and blue eyes, dressed in a gray suit, with a brown derby hat and lace shoes.

OHIO TROOPS CALLED.

Coxeyite Army Defies the Civil Law at Mount Sterling.

A Martial Jeered At When He Told Them to Leave a Train.

No Baltimore and Ohio Freight Has Gone Through in Two Days.

(By Associated Press.)

MOUNT STERLING, O., April 28.—Detectives Mahoney, Murphy, Bauer and Schlesinger, with a posse of 100 men, arrived here on a special train from Columbus at 1 A. M. Their purpose is to drive Galvin's 350 Industrials of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's property.

Gov. McKinley has sanctioned this movement. Galvin's army is camped behind the stolen freight train and has guards on duty to prevent the train from leaving.

When Detective Mahoney ordered the Galvin men to surrender the captured train, the Coxeyites jeered at him and refused to leave. The detective did not attempt to use force, but at once telegraphed to the Governor for help.

Kinley has ordered Battery H, of this city, Capt. Frank T. Stewart, to go to Mount Sterling to clear a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train of Coxey men. The battery has Gatling guns and cannon.

The Governor also ordered Companies B, C and F of the Fourteenth Regiment, O. N. G., Col. of this city, to proceed to Mount Sterling. These are all Columbus companies, and with the battery will number about 150 men. Col. Colt himself was at Chillicothe, but his command is en route.

The Governor's action is based on the fact that S. P. Peabody, General Agent for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, said that the train was not able to get a freight train through from Columbus to Mount Sterling.

Central Labor Union Will Not Take Part in the Celebration.

ONLY THE LABOR FEDERATION.

Lines of March and the Various Organizations Which Will Participate.

The Conference Committee on the May Day celebration put the final touches on the preparations last night, when delegates from all the trades interested met at the Central Labor Federation headquarters, 64 East Fourth street, and handed in their reports. The permits for the parade obtained from the police were exhibited, the routes freely discussed, a grand marshal and his aides appointed and replies read from speakers who will evidence the enthusiasm of the big mass-meeting.

Ernest Bohm, grand marshal, says, will be in line on Tuesday night, and about 500 women. The permits for the parade put the number at that figure, while it is believed that fully twice as many will be in the vicinity of the plaza on Union Square when the parade is held.

It is claimed that the men sought to enter the United States on passports were refused, and that they had committed crime in removing the cancellation stamps.

Judge Lacombe said that the fraud was apparent, and the application was denied. The Chinamen will be sent back to Havana, Cuba, whence they came.
